

45.03.01 – Philology

BA Program: Teaching Philological Subjects

Duration

Intramural: 4 years

State-funded places in 2020-2021 academic year: 8

Tuition fee in 2019-2020 academic year: RUB 120,000

Advantages

- More hours for the foreign language (English) – a better language competence
- More hours for the contemporary Russian language – not only a better preparation to the profession of a Russian language teacher but also an opportunity to become a translator
- Practical course of Russian as a foreign language enables to acquire an additional profession, teacher of Russian as a foreign language
- A big amount of hours for Russian and foreign literature in comparison with the analogous BA programs enables you to become a good literature teacher
- A special emphasis is put on methods of working on texts in Russian and foreign languages including stylistics enables you to develop linguistic intuition and complete the skills of a researcher and teacher of Russian and foreign languages

Core subjects

- Contemporary Russian
- Foreign Language (English)
- History of Russian Literature
- History of Foreign Literature
- Practical Course of Russian as a Foreign Language
- Pedagogical Anthropology
- Methods of Teaching Foreign Languages

Career opportunities

Philological education opens the door to any area of our life. Literate, beautiful speech, erudition through reading, wide cultural horizon, ability to creatively think and logical, exact, and emphatic expression – this is what philologist attracts a potential employer. Many people holding key positions in Russia and in the world have philological education.

Entrance exams

- Foreign language
- Russian
- Literature